Kuromon Market, which had been an officially recognized market referred to as “Osaka’s kitchen,” will have a new presence inside Kadoma Umaimon Machi. A total of 17 stores will form a richly colorful market area, including 11 stores in the core Kuromon Market and 6 stores selling a rich variety of food products, such as Japanese and Western confectioneries and delicatessen dishes. (Entire area: approx. 2,500 m²)

Kuromon Market inside Kadoma Umaimon Machi will host a large lineup of establishments, including the Gyu-cho butcher shop offering an outstanding balance of quality and affordability, the renowned Fukahiro seafood wholesaler with a history spanning 118 years, and the venerable NEW DARUNI curry restaurant that has remained consistent in terms of the taste of its menu items since the early post-World War II era. In addition to the fresh and high-quality fresh food that only a market can offer, there are also new restaurants not found in the Minami-Nihonbashi Kuromon Market, making it a space that customers can enjoy spending their time as though it were a second dining table, allowing customers to enjoy shopping, eating in the store, or taking a break at a common table with a drink in hand.
